← Closet "Foxhole" for Deserter

Mrs. Doris E. Bender, 23, lifts the trap door entrance to a pit in the closet of her Washington apartment, where police found an Army deserter using the space as a "foxhole" hideaway. Mrs. Bender, wife of a soldier serving in India and mother of two small children, was seized, held in $1000 bonds. (Other pictures and story on Page 5.)

Allies to Shut Ulster Border

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE

LONDON, March 13 (AP) — Outright closing of northern Ireland's border with Eire to give full effect to the suspension of travel between the islands of Britain and Ireland was a near prospect today.

War Today 'Neutrality' Laid to Irish Hate of British

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst
I'm constantly being asked by Americans, including folk of Irish descent, just why Eire should cling so tightly to her neutrality. This is especially puzzling to many because Ireland's shield against danger from the continent of Europe is the island which composes the United Kingdom, and Eire's ties with America are strong.

Dublin's neutrality has deprived the Anglo-American Allies of naval bases with the result that the war has been lengthened and Allied lives and shipping have been lost. We have needed Eire's help badly. Why then has she stood out?

BITTER TOWARD BRITAIN

The basic reason is Eire's bitterness toward everything English.

So powerful is this feeling in the heart of the average southern Irishman that he would sacrifice himself rather than give aid to England.

Of course, not all citizens of Eire feel that way. Some 200,000 are fighting with the British forces and others are lending their support. Still, the majority of the southern Irish want nothing to do with the English.

REBELLION 28 YEARS AGO

Probably Prime Minister de Valera, whom I have known for many years on a most friendly basis, would spank me for the assertion about hatred. He would say the security of Ireland has depended on neutrality. However, I think the support which his people are giving him in this stand is due to their anti-English feeling.

We must remember that only 28 years ago came Easter, southern Ireland was in rebellion against England. That was bloody Easter week—and bloody it was.

I was there as a reporter. De Valera himself was one of the leaders of that revolt, and was pardoned after being condemned to death. Then followed years of fierce conflict between the Irish and the British armed constabulary.

Many of the present generation of southern Irish lived through this period. And back of that were hundreds of years of strife between Ireland and England. Those things aren't forgotten overnight.

Eire undoubtedly would say her heart is with the Allied cause. But she feels strongly, and her heart isn't with John Bull.

Woman Among 8 Axis Spies Seized in Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 13 (AP)—Else von Flaten, former employee of the German embassy, has been arrested on an espionage charge, government authorities announced today.

All reports from Belfast, northern Ireland, said this step—which the British government could order—was regarded as inevitable as the Allies moved with hard realism to end the alleged use of neutral Eire as an Axis spy base.

Certain other steps, of a nature not now to be disclosed, may also be taken.

(Charles A. Smith of International News Service cabled from London a report that leaders of the outlawed Irish Republican Army had ordered its members engaged in British war industries to carry out sabotage plans against the Allied war effort in retaliation for the ban on travel. He quoted the London Daily Herald as the source of his information.)

(Details of plans by the IRA to retard the British war effort, said the Herald, were found during police raids on Belfast.)

(Large numbers of IRA members working in Britain and Northern Ireland were said to have created trouble at various plants previously. Many leaders already were reported arrested and police were said to be engaged in combing out of Northern Ireland all persons suspected as IRA sympathizers. These persons have been told to return to Eire and remain there.)

All travel except in cases of greatest urgency was suspended between Britain and Ireland, whether Northern Ireland or Eire, by a British Home Office order last night two days after Eire's prime minister, Eamon de Valera, announced his refusal to accede to a United States request that German and Jap diplomatic offices in the country be closed.

The order resulted from an urgent request by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied invasion commander, who was said to have information Axis representatives in Eire constituted a serious menace to military security.

Bombers Head For France After RAF Night Raid

LONDON, March 13 (AP)—British Mosquito bombers attacked unspecified objectives in western Germany last night without loss, the air ministry announced today, and shortly after their return Allied daylight formations were heard heading toward northern France.

The identity of the daylight planes was hidden by low clouds and rain squalls, but coastal residents said they sounded like bombers.

First reports said there apparently were hundreds of planes in the outgoing formations. Later the Deutschlandsender and the Bremen and Calais radios went off the air, indicating the raiders were over the Continent.

Depending only on their own guns for safety, a formation of American Liberators hit enemy military installations in the Pas-de-Calais region of France yesterday in the first U. S. heavy bomber operation in months without fighter escort.

All the big aircraft returned home from the foray, their second in as many days without loss.

The Liberator mission followed the eighth night blow of the month by RAF Mosquitos. The wooden bombers hit the bomb-wrecked port of Hamburg Saturday night for the first time since Jan. 1. One plane failed to return.

German raiders over England last night set off London's warning system for the first time since last Wednesday, but there was no immediate report of any damage or loss of life.

A air ministry announcement last night said that Augsburg's 150-acre M. A. N. U-boat engine works—Germany's largest—were extensively damaged by American and British attacks late in February. Hardly a factory escaped damage, the report said.

Allies K. O. 4 Ships Off Europe

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 13 (AP)—British Beaufighters on sweeps against German shipping in the western Mediterranean attacked and hit two enemy supply ships off the Spanish coast, driving one to the beach and leaving the other sinking, it was announced today.

An Allied communique also said naval forces in the Adriatic had sunk two enemy vessels—one in Neretva channel on the Yugoslav coast Friday night and the other below Ancona Saturday.

On the Anzio beachhead, Allied artillery fire was increased considerably in strength yesterday, the communique said.

Check Hopkins at Mayo's

ROCHESTER, Minn., March 13 (AP)—Routine physical checkup of Harry L. Hopkins, personal friend and adviser of President Roosevelt, continued at Mayo clinic today. Hopkins arrived by Army plane Thursday from Flordia where he had gone to recuperate from an attack of influenza.

Russians Race For Kherson

LONDON, March 13 (AP)—The Red army battled today to within 22 miles of the big Nazi base of Kherson on the lower Dnieper river, Moscow announced, after slaying 5000 Germans to bring to more than 60,000 the number declared killed in eight days of the massive southern offensive.

The Russians swept up 210 more communities yesterday, slashing the Proskurov-Gusiatin railway leading into Rumania and Hungary and storming into Gavron on the Middle Bug river, 50 miles from Rumania and close to one of the few intact railways left to the Germans in southern Russia.

The bulletin did not mention the fighting at Tarnopol at the upper end of the southern front, but Tass, Soviet news agency, reported earlier that the Russians were dislodging the Germans house by house, with the Nazis clinging to every ditch and gutter.

A field dispatch said the Germans were fighting fiercely for every hilltop, stream and road in the Tarnopol sector.

The advance to within 22 miles of Kherson was made by one Soviet force which struck 18 miles beyond Berislav, captured Saturday, and seized Tyaginka.

The bulletin said that other Soviet troops had captured Dolinskaya, a key junction of the line leading south to Nikolaev, another important Nazi river and sea supply port on the Black sea.

Envoy Cites Eire Aid to Allies

WASHINGTON, March 13 (INS) — Irish Minister Robert Brennan said today that Eire is making a greater contribution to the Allied cause by maintaining its neutrality than if it entered the war.

The Irish envoy pointed out that Southern Ireland is sending large quantities of livestock and agricultural products to the British Isles.

"If we were to sever relations with the Axis powers and enter the war," Brennan said, "we would have to divert to defense work many of the men and women who are now devoting their time to the production of livestock and agriculture."

"The State Department has assured me on several occasions that there has not been a single instance of any known leakage of Allied military information through Ireland during the past two years."

Yugo Red Unit To Join Tito

By EDDY GILMORE
WITH YUGOSLAV TROOPS IN RUSSIA, March 13 (AP)—A Yugoslav unit, equipped by the Red army, took allegiance here today to Marshal Tito, Partisan leader, and prepared for battle under his banner.

It is a tough-looking group, mostly seasoned fighters who previously served in German labor battalions on the Russian front, the Italian army, the Hungarian army or in the Yugoslav army.

In talks with officers and men I found not one who expressed any desire to fight for King Peter.

Beauty Shines Amid Ugly War

By AUSTEN LAKE

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND—There is more than plain comfort in some of the headquarters where our officers and men are billeted. In these deep country mansions there is a splendor of surrounding which gives graciousness and outward elegance to the training routine in this extraordinary war.

I have visited scores of such places and entered by gates belonging to the Tudors (Henry VII and VIII, Edward VI, Mary and Elizabeth). There some of our soldiers live enclosed by noble parks, gone back to seed, and ornamental waters, grown brackish, and amid broad acres where centuries of harvests were made, now gone back to weeds.

One vision Lady Jane Grey riding forth from one of these archways with a hawk on her wrist, or "Charles the Martyr" with his gentlemen-at-arms, their plumes alight in the morning sun, as they mount for the daily hunt. I came not so long ago from one such manse where Capt. John S. Kelly, Jr., of 294 Prospect st., Brockton, and Capt. John F. Dulligan of 49 Piedmont st., Worcester, lived in congenial comfort, amid rosewood furniture, Louis XIV fittings, marble sculptures and libraries of leather bound books.

But let no man envy them. For lately they had lived in the constant zipping of enemy bullets, and the crushing detonations of enemy bombs, and the shock of mortal fire. Their habitation was an arid shouting, with an absorption in their game that recalled a boys' school and its recessed scholars.

Theirs was an appreciation for the little things, the short intervals of peace, the simple quotients of leisure as men who grasp at the tiny straws of an existence they had not full valued before. I think it was John Dulligan, an old Holy Crosser and one of those leanly dark, tough-gentle natured men who said of war's fortune:

"Well, it's just written into the big book—just yes or no."

And I found that most of those veterans think that way; that Fate has inscribed their destiny an indelible ink. What IS will BE! And don't shout "rubbish" or scream about heresy, or the faults in fatalistic thought. For the chemistry of men's minds, during such chaotic times, goes through strange transitions.

A writer, if he is wise, doesn't attempt to take notes on such

A FORTRESS STATION, England, March 13 (INS)—Capt. W. G. Brownlow, of Knoxville, Tenn., a Fortress pilot who participated in the first Berlin raid by the big bombers, declared today that "it looks like the Luftwaffe is 67 per cent destroyed."

Shaw Speaks

LONDON, March 13 (AP)—George Bernard Shaw, an Irishman himself, defends the Irish for refusing to "abandon neutrality" by cracking down on Axis diplomats in Eire.

"Of course they are justified," said the veteran playwright in an exclusive interview yesterday with J. C. Toohill of the Daily Sketch.

Asked if the Irish "have a real grievance against the English," Shaw replied: "We have centuries of grievances against them."

Would imposition of economic sanctions alter the Irish neutrality viewpoint? "As an Irishman you (Toohill) should know the answer," Shaw said. "The effect will be to the contrary."

FBI ARRESTS 18 INDICTED IN LOTTERY

FBI agents, deputy U. S. marshals and local police today rounded up and arrested in three New England states 16 men indicted secretly last Friday by the federal grand jury in an alleged million-dollar lottery based on U. S. Treasury balance reports.

The men were all charged with being involved in operation of the Crystal Lottery, with daily prizes ranging from 50 cents to $100 and with headquarters at Lawrence and Haverhill, selling more than 53,000 tickets weekly.

Seven of the men were arraigned today in Boston before Judge George C. Sweeney in federal court. One pleaded guilty and six not guilty and were held in varying bail sums for trial at a date to be set.

ONE PLEADS GUILTY

Michael J. Kennedy, 56, of Wachusetts ave., Lawrence, pleaded guilty and was bailed in $3000;

Pleading not guilty were William F. Hickey, 60, of Hobson st., Lawrence, bail $2000; Francis X. O'Connor, 44, Lowell st., Lawrence, bail $2000; John Carney, 59, Blossom st., Lowell, carnival concessionaire, $2000; Arthur Young, 50, Plummer ave., Newburyport, oil company employe at Gloucester, $1000; George E. Whitmore, 38, A st., South Portland, Me., and Harold A. Harbridge, 49, an electrical salesman at Springfield, formerly of Keene, N. H., $1000.

E. A. Soucy, agent in charge of the New England FBI office, disclosed that the tristate arrests were made simultaneously.

OTHERS ACCUSED

The others arrested, according to Soucy, included William E. (Pete) Whittier, 48, of Keeley st., Haverhill, cigar store proprietor; Edgar Fournier, 57, Poole st., Biddeford, fish market proprietor; Emile Le Blond, 46, known also as Le Blone, Palm st., Nashua, N. H., paper company employe; Theodore J. Dube, 31, Broad st., Nashua, N. H., paper company employe.

Carroll E. Wiggins, 35, of Concord rd., Dover, N. H., farm employe; John A. (Sandy) Ferguson, 54, Crossfield st., Keene, N. H.; Odias Routhier, 50, De Marais ave., Derry, N. H., and Patrick J. Nadeau of Lewiston, Me.

N. H. Fire Kills 5; 2 Women, Baby Saved by Leap

ROLLINSFORD, N. H., March 13 (AP)—Five persons perished today when fire levelled their home in this little town near Dover. Three others escaped.

Two women leaped from a second-floor window. One of them dropped an infant into the arms of the other after the first had leaped.

The dead were John Servetas, 27; his son, John, Jr., 4; Barbara Downs, 10; Virginia Downs, 2, and Lawrence Downs, 16.

Mrs. Servetas and her sister, Mrs. Emily Downs, leaped to safety after being trapped on the second floor.

Mrs. Servetas leaped first and caught Mrs. Downs' infant when the child's mother dropped it. Servetas discovered the fire, police reported, but it was raging so furiously on the ground floor it was impossible to escape by the stairs. He awoke others and then lost his life attempting to guide them to safety.

Lawrence and Barbara Downs were brother and sister of Mrs. Servetas.

The building was a two-story wooden structure. Rollinsford is midway between Dover and South Berwick, Me.

Father of 11 Must Choose Army or Jail

Lawrence F. Green of Lynn, who allegedly is in the red over support payments to his wife, seemed to be in the pink today in Lynn court, but when Judge Ralph W. Reeve painted a pictorial rainbow for him as an Army man, Green shrugged and appeared to become blue.

The future had two likely prospects for Green, the court commented—the Army or jail—but certain factors, 12 of them most important, leaned him toward a military career.

One of the factors was that Green comes under Judge Reeve's draft board; the other 11 factors were the 33-year-old Green's 11 children. A nice way Green could take care of his non-support charge, the court suggested, was for Green to beat the draft gun and ask for induction.

Once Green was in the Army—and he appeared certain to go soon anyhow, Judge Reeve pointed out—$280 a month would accrue to his wife and the youngsters in Harbor st.

Green nibbled the shelf of his lower lip and brooded. He looked up at the judge and sighed deeply. He looked down at the floor and shrugged.

Finally the court gave him a week to think it over.

4 "Free' Business to Give Postwar Jobs--Bricker

Boston University interrupts the four-day New England tour of Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio today to confer an honorary degree on the candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, who high-lighted his Boston visit by proposing a constructive post-war program of dynamic economy, elimination of bureaucracy, and sound taxation.

The Ohio governor, week-end guest of Gov. Saltonstall, who introduced him over the radio last night and commended his "sound administration and financial policy" in the Buckeye State, repeated his broadcast speech later at Boston University's Institute on Post-war Problems.

JOBS BIGGEST PROBLEM

In his speech Gov. Bricker declared employment would be the nation's greatest postwar problem and that America's productive forces must be freed by permitting business to expand and earn a reasonable profit in order to solve it.

He offered his three-point program as a means of accomplishing the reemployment of 12,000,000 and asserted that solution rested not on government alone but on "closest co-operation between industry, labor and government."

After receiving his honorary degree today, Gov. Bricker will be the luncheon guest of President and Mrs. Daniel Marsh at the University Club, will attend the closing discussion session of the Institute in the afternoon, and speak once more at the banquet culminating the three-day session tonight.

He leaves tomorrow for Springfield where his four-day tour of New England in the interests of his candidacy for the Republican nomination will come to an end.

RESTORE CONFIDENCE

Stressing the problems of employment, the Ohio chief executive asserted it must be provided through private industry with help from state and local governments without federal aid, and that confidence in the nation's economic future must be instilled.

"First," he said, "we must repudiate the philosophy of government management in America."

"For 11 years our national leaders have tried to change our system from free enterprise to managed economy."

"It was unintelligent management," he charged, "uncompromising, dominating and incoherent management. Governmental planners were hostile to capital. They stifled small business, forced distribution of their earnings and made it impossible for them to expand."

"We must root out of our society the insidious disease called bureaucracy. Every person in the United States has felt the tentacles of bureaucracy tightening about him. Even the personal lives of men and women have been subjected to ever increasing controls from Washington."

NEW DEAL IN CONTROL

"These controls are in the hands of the President, who rules by decrees and directives and through swarms of office holders. The citizen literally is stunned by what Prof. William Bennett Munro called 'the unending shower of orders, rulings and directives which fly from these administrative agencies like sparks from a blacksmith's anvil.'"

Gov. Bricker said the sky-rocketing of the public debt is a threat to our economic future, if pre-war fiscal policies are continued. The post-war interest charge on a debt of two hundred and fifty billion dollars—our estimated debt by June 30, 1945—will be from five to seven billion dollars annually, he said.

He attended the Old South Church, Copley sq., with Dr. and Mrs. McIllyar Lichtler, of Beacon st., and their attractive daughter, Mary. Dr. Lichtler is former pastor of the First Church of Columbus, Ohio.

"We had a nice reunion," Gov. Bricker said after the services.

Clark Speeds Vets' Bill on Final Round

By FRANK REILLY

Boston American Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, March 13—The veterans' omnibus bill was today being launched on its final legislative drive by Sen. Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri, backed by the signatures of 70 Senators, more than two-thirds of the total membership of the Upper House.

Clark will introduce to the Senate a final revised draft of the bill which was first sponsored by these American Legion and which currently has more support than any similar piece of legislation in the 169-year history of Congress. It has the support of:

- 1.—The 70 Senators whose names are affixed as sponsors.
- 2.—The War Department.
- 3.—The Navy Department.
- 4.—The Veterans' Administration, headed by Gen. Frank Hines.
- 5.—The Department of Agriculture.
- 6.—The Federal Housing Administration.
- 7.—The Veterans of Foreign Wars.
- 8.—The American War Dads.

Following the reintroduction of the measure, which goes back to the Senate as a new bill, it will be referred back to Sen. Clark's subcommittee, which will go through the formality of officially approving it. The bill then goes to the full Senate finance committee, and with the endorsement of the chairman, Sen. Walter F. George of Georgia, will take its place on the Senate calendar for final action, probably Thursday.

Meantime pressure will be brought in the House for passage of the bill by Friday, with groups of Legionnaires visiting House members to line them up for speedy passage.

Former Gov. John Stelle of Illinois, chairman of the Legion committee which drafted the original omnibus bill, appealed to parents of servicemen and women to concentrate on House members from their states, by mail or telegram.

Two persons were injured early today when the auto in which they were riding collided with an Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway bus in Walnut st., Saugus.

LEGION TO FETE BIRTHDAY WITH VET PETITION

More than 500,000 Massachusetts citizens—men and women, rich and poor, young and old—will take part in the state-wide and nation-wide observance of the American Legion's 25th "birthday party" to be staged Wednesday. The Massachusetts department through its state commander, John L. Delay, of Arlington, has completed plans for the Legion's observance.

Legionnaires throughout the Commonwealth will mark the silver anniversary of the organization in their respective neighborhoods by circulating petitions to Congress, endorsing the Legion-sponsored G. I. "Bill of Rights" for discharged veterans of World War II.

"What greater birthday message can the Legion give to servicemen and women than by telling them we have been successful in the passage of this legislation in their behalf," Commander Delay stated.

"The friends of the Legion in Massachusetts can participate in the observance and make a 'gift' to the organization by inscribing their name on the 'Bill of Rights' petition which may be obtained at the nearest Legion post in their community," Delay added.

Legion officials revealed that by midnight Wednesday more than 500,000 signatures will have been secured.

In addition to the petitions, each of the 360 posts scattered throughout the Bay State will send three telegrams to Washington on that day.

Halifax and Bricker Given B. U. Degrees

"We, speaking for Great Britain, have respected Irish neutrality in the past and will continue to do so."

That statement was made today by Lord Halifax, British ambassador to United States, when he arrived in Boston to join Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio and five others in receiving honorary degrees from Boston University at the annual Founders' Day convocation in Trinity Church.

Asked if the Irish problem will be settled through diplomatic channels or whether economic sanctions will be imposed, Halifax replied:

"There have been no threats of force from your government whatsoever. The whole situation has been covered thoroughly in news reports and there is nothing of importance I can add."

DEGREES FOR SEVEN

The British diplomat's wife, Lady Halifax, was unable to accompany him to Boston. She is ill with the flu in Washington.

Halifax was met at Back Bay Station by Boyd Tollington, acting British consul-general in Boston, and Stoughton Bell of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

At the convocation ceremonies Halifax was presented with an honorary degree of doctor of civil law. Gov. Bricker received an honorary degree of doctor of laws.

President Daniel L. Marsh of Boston University also presented honorary degrees to the following: William W. Pierson, dean of University of North Carolina graduate school, doctor of letters; Charles F. H. Allen, Eastman Kodak Co., researcher, doctor of science; Frank B. Jewett, board chairman of Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc., doctor of science; Eric A. Johnston, U. S. Chamber of Commerce president, doctor of laws; Rufus B. Von Kleinsmid, president of University of Southern California, doctor of laws.

PRaise for Bricker

Charles Seymour, president of Yale, was to have received an honorary doctorate of laws but was unable to attend due to illness.

In honoring Gov. Bricker, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, President Marsh read the citation:

"Lawyer and public servant; a scholar who is a politician; a politician who is a statesman; a statesman whose efficiency, integrity and Christian gentlemanliness merit the confidence which your fellow citizens have expressed in you by thrice in succession electing you Governor of Ohio."

INSTITUTE ENDS TONIGHT

Fres. Marsh, in his Founders' Day address, lauded universities for "originating and promoting methods of scientific investigation."

"Man has been a long time coming to the realization that he should have dominion over physical forces, putting all things beneath his feet, making all things serve him," he said.

The ceremonies marked the third day of the university's institute on postwar problems, which will close tonight with a dinner at Hotel Statler at which Gov. Bricker, Gov. Saltonstall and Eric Johnston will be speakers.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon for Norman C. Raymond, 30, who perished in his burning Ashland farmhouse as his wife and two small children were being carried down ladders to safety.

3 IDENTIFY 'L' HOLDUP SUSPECT

After viewing a police lineup of 15 men who had been ordered to conceal their faces partly with handkerchiefs, three persons today identified James Callahan, 23, of Dorchester ave., South Boston, as an El station holdup man.

Callahan, a Concord Reformatory parolee, was arrested by police with drawn guns in North Station last night, following a wild automobile chase which ended when his car collided with a bus driven by Justin Hanscomb of Portsmouth, N. H.

Hanscomb chased him into the station and dropped him with a flying tackle amidst throngs of startled travelers.

EL CASHIER ROBBED

Callahan was held on suspicion of armed robbery in connection with a holdup at the collector's booth of the Shawmut El station, where a man waving a gun and holding a handkerchief to his face took $79 from Mrs. Jean Duffy, Glenville ave., Allston. He was also alleged to have made an unsuccessful holdup at the Charles st. El.

Mrs. Duffy and Mrs. Alice Barrett of Ware st., Cambridge, cashier at Charles st., singled out the parolee as the man who had accosted them with the gun. Mrs. Barrett said her screams drove him off.

SUSPECT HAD GUN

Louis Cantilli, of Belmont st., Somerville, a Navy Yard war worker, who chased the holdup man when he fled from the Charles st. station and escaped in a car, also picked him out of the lineup.

Police stated they found a gun on Callahan after subduing him. They said he had been paroled from Concord last November, after serving five years of sentences totaling 15 years for assault with intent to murder and breaking and entering.

Paris Stirred By 'Bluebeard' Murder of 25

LONDON, March 13 (AP)—Paris was declared to be excited today over a new Bluebeard case following the discovery of clues to the butchery of 25 women in a Rue le Sueur "horror" house near the Arc de Triomphe.

The German news agency DNB said a "Dr. Plot" was a suspect. The agency's broadcast dispatch added that the killer apparently lured the victims into a vacant villa he rented, slew and dismembered them and burned the bodies.

An earlier Berlin broadcast said the house was owned by a Dr. Plot who lived in the Rue Caumartin, but that the doctor had vanished before police arrived there. It said there were at least eight victims.

Discovery of the crimes came when neighbors reported a stench to the gas company, and utility workers checking the pipes discovered in the villa's furnace room heads, arms, legs and other organs, all of women, DNB said. The courtyard dump also was said to have contained a dozen human limbs.

Clothing labels indicated that the killer had committed the crimes in the two years since he engaged the villa, DNB reported.

The mystery was reminiscent of the "Bluebeard" Landru case. Landru's slayings, including 10 women, sent him to the guillotine in 1921.

The Berlin radio said police and firemen broke into the murder villa in the Arc de Triomphe area while "vile-smelling smoke still was rising from the chimney" and probing in the cellar found the furnace "red hot with four charred bodies inside."

4 Marihuana Suspects Held

James E. Brown, 24, of West Springfield st., South End, who they claim is wanted by the Army as a deserter, had two packages of marihuana cigarettes in his possession.

They also picked up Pvt. Herbert M. Jones, of Wellington st., Boston, in another raid.

Later, they arrested Miss Mary M. Ancoino, 35, a waitress, at her room in a Harwich st., South End, lodging house, and allege she had 50 grains of marihuana in her handbag. With Miss Ancoino, and also arrested, was a sailor, David Bullock, 19, of Louisiana.

BOY'S TRAIN DEATH 2D NEAR SAME SPOT

Six-year-old Stanley Caminsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Caminsky of Woodrow ave., Dorchester, is dead today, second victim of a fatal train accident in that neighborhood within a three-day period.

He was struck by a freight train at the site of the old Dorchester railroad station, while on his way to a neighborhood store with Selma Feinberg, 11, of Vesta rd., a cousin.

His parents were visiting his critically ill grandmother at City Hospital when the accident occurred and left the hospital only a few minutes before the boy was brought in. He died in a few hours.

The accident scene was but a mile from the point where Carol Ann McGaffigan, 4, of Olney st., Dorchester, was killed and Brenda Curtis, 4, of Everton st., Dorchester, was critically hurt. The Curtis child has recovered consciousness at City Hospital.

Pittsfield Fire Kills Dad; 3 Safe

PITTSFIELD, March 13 (INS)—C. Harold Floyd, 64, wealthy New York and Pittsfield socialite, lost his life today while attempting to reach the side of his daughter, Elizabeth, 13, when fire caused $10,000 damage to their home in Kenilworth st.

Elizabeth, her mother and a son, Edward, 11, overcome by smoke, were rescued by firemen. Floyd went to the bedroom to rescue Elizabeth who had awakened and was in the library calling the fire department.

Mrs. Floyd is the former Kathleen D. Nelson of Albany, N. Y., daughter of an Episcopal bishop.

Nab Miner in Killing Of Kentucky Postman

WHITESBURG, Ky., March 13 (AP)—John Banks, 35, Letcher County miner who is charged with fatally clubbing a rural mail carrier, robbing him and burying him alive, was arrested near here yesterday, Sheriff Gilbert Polly announced.

The sheriff said Banks admitted the slaying of Pearl Bowling, 50, Friday night on Lick Fork, explaining only that "he had to do it."

Wife Who Hid Army Deserter Arraigned

WASHINGTON, March 13 (INS)—The 23-year-old mother of two small children, wife of a soldier overseas, held on $1000 bond today on a charge of harboring a Army deserter in a pit under the floor of her apartment faced arraignment today before U. S. Commissioner Needham C. Turnage.

Washington police said that Mrs. Doris E. Bender was visited by military police at midnight Friday, and again in the wee hours of Saturday morning. On both occasions, they said, Mrs. Bender denied the deserter, whose name was withheld, was in her first-floor apartment.

Later Detective Sergt. Roy Blake of the Washington force decided to search the apartment as a result of a tip. He went to the apartment, police said, opened a trapdoor in the floor of a closet and found the deserter in the pit.

Mrs. Bender is reported to have told Blake that the deserter was a friend of her husband and that her husband was serving with U. S. forces in India.

Police said the pit in which the deserter was found is a space about three feet high between the ground and the first floor of the apartment.

FAMED WAR I TRANSPORT IS HOSPITAL SHIP

Vivid memories of their return from the first World War will be recalled by scores of New England veterans today, following news that the famous troop transport Chateau Thierry, on which so many came back from service with the Army of Occupation, has been refitted and commissioned as a hospital ship.

The 24-year-old vessel is the first floating hospital ever commissioned in Boston. In her new role she will have many New England nurses, hospital corpsmen and sailors in her complement.

In her spottless hospital wards, where each narrow white bed has a "Mae West" life jacket neatly folded at its foot, the Chateau Thierry can carry 515 patients to be cared for by a staff of 190 hospital workers—eight physicians and a dentist, 34 Army nurses and an enlisted complement of technicians and ward men.

Four operating rooms can go at full speed when wounded men need swift attention, while nine trained "shock teams" stand ready to service new arrivals, according to Maj. Carroll B. Robertson, M. D., hospital ship commander.

New England officers aboard include: Lieut. James P. Denabaz of Evergreen st.; Capt. Shor; Lieut. Helen E. Coffey of Auburn st.; West Newton; Lieut. Thomas M. Coffin of James ave.; Winthrop; Lieut. Martin B. Dickson of John st.; Chelsea; Lieut. Jean N. Donahy of Main st.; Melrose; Lieut. Barbara Gourville of Lexington st.; Everett.

Everett Gunner Downs German

An Everett' you'h, an AAF gunner on the Flying Fortresses of the Eighth Air Force which participated in a recent bombing assault on a Nazi war factory, was revealed today to have shot down one of the Nazi planes that attacked his formation, according to a dispatch from England.

Sergt. Frank C. Tracy, 19, son of Mrs. Annie Tracy of 9 Russell st., Everett, in relating the experience, said:

"The enemy fighters were attacking the group on our left very hard. One fighter came very close, and as I fired I could see shells from my guns bursting in a line from the cockpit to the engine. His engine started to smoke, and in a moment the pilot threw off his cockpit cover and bailed out. His 'tattle-tale gray' chute opened, and he drifted down.

"We had one large hole in the tail, but little other damage. If the ships in our formation hadn't stuck so close together, those Nazi fighters would have cut us to pieces."

Tracy is a graduate of Sacred Heart School for Boys in Everett,

Leftists Demand Badoglio Ouster

NAPLES, March 13 (AP)—Leaders of three Leftist Italian political parties today began circulating petitions demanding that King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Badoglio be ousted to permit formation of a "true democratic government" to further Italy's war effort.

The action followed a mass meeting yesterday at which several thousand members of the Communist, Socialist and Action parties shouted approval of a declaration calling for a purge of the present Italian government.

The meeting was staged as a protest against Prime Minister Churchill's recent endorsement of the king and the Badoglio government. American military police stood guard around the building where the gathering was held.

Yanks Rip Wewak, Destroy 26 Planes

By RICHARD C. BERGHOLZ
Associated Press War Editor

Twenty-six Japanese planes, remnants of the enemy's once-powerful airforce in the Southwest Pacific, were destroyed by U. S. Fifth Airforce during a 120-ton strike at Wewak, main Japanese base on New Guinea, Gen. MacArthur reported today.

In the Central Pacific, marines landed without opposition on Wotho atoll, 67 miles northwest of Kwajalein in the Marshall Islands, giving the Allies a straight string of islands extending from Majuro in the eastern Marshalls through Kwajalein and Wotho to Eniwetok in the west. The line points straight toward Tokyo.

HEAVY WEWAK RAID

Other marines, fighting on Wilaumez Peninsula in New Britain, have consolidated their position around captured Talasoa and its emergency landing field. Allied forces on Bougainville to the east have driven Japanese back from other gains won during a violent eruption of heavy fighting on the Empress Augusta Bay battlefield.

The raid on Wewak, one of the heaviest in weeks, left gun positions smashed, fuel and supply areas burning. In addition to the 24 planes shot down, Japanese probably lost six others and several parked planes were destroyed, MacArthur said. Two American planes failed to return.

Wide-ranging air and sea craft accounted for 23 Japanese barges, patrol boats and small coastal ships along the rim of the Bismarck sea. At least two of the barges were filled with troops.

RABAU FLASTERED

Rabaul, New Britain, was hit with 91 tons of explosives, other planes supported ground operations on Los Negros island in the Admiralty and in the central Pacific, American planes raided four undesignated atolls in the eastern Marshalls Friday.

On the Arakan front in Burma, British troops captured Buthe-daung, Japanese defense base 55 north of Akyab, while American and Chinese troops smashed two miles farther down the Hukawng valley to within 11 miles of its southern end.

Lieut.-Gen. Stilwell, directing the Hukawng valley drive, said, "Although I have often been wrong, I am willing to hazard the guess the entire Hukawng valley will soon be ours."

3 Win Decorations For Bravery Feats

Decorations for three New Englanders, authorized by Navy Secretary Knox for extraordinary heroism, were announced today by First Navy District headquarters.

The Navy Cross was awarded last November to Lieut.-Comdr. Charles H. Hutchins, 31, USNR, of Pawtucket, R. I., commander of the destroyer Borie in its heroic duel to the death with two enemy submarines in the Atlantic.

After sinking one sub, the citation recounted, the Borie encountered another and rammed her.

"In the ensuing fight Hutchins' command waged a gallant close-quarter fight, using every available weapon. The Borie, unnavigable, brought the submarine to a stop by exploding three depth charges directly under her and ended all resistance with the surrender and eventual sinking of the vessel."

The Silver Star was awarded to Comdr. John B. Fellows, Jr., 34, of Marion st., Fitchburg, for "conspicuous gallantry in action as commanding officer of the U. S. S. Guin in the assault on Rendova Island."

"Fellows led a destroyer division through submarine-infested waters, repulsed enemy attacks and carried out five hazardous missions successfully to reinforce garrisons in the area," the citation said.

Capt. Oliver H. Ritchie, 49, U. S. N. R., of Highland st., West Newton, received the Legion of Merit for "exceptionally meritorious service during the amphibious invasion of Sicily."

2 Nazi Generals In Russia Fired

LONDON, March 13 (AP)—Two German commanders on the Russian front—Field Marshal von Kluege, commander-in-chief of the center, and Field Marshal von Keuchler on the extreme northern flank—have been permanently relieved and replaced by commanders who are strong Nazis and not from the Junkers generals' caste, an usually reliable informant said today.

Information from Germany said Von Kluege was wounded seriously six years ago, presumably by action of Partisans behind the lines or from Russian bombing. A week ago he was replaced permanently by Gen. Ernst Busch, who was promoted to field marshal.

Von Keuchler was replaced by Gen. Walter Model — reportedly because of "the stress of the campaign."

Both Busch and Model have come up from the ranks.

MARINE HERO SPURS DRIVE OF RED CROSS

Leaders of the Boston Red Cross 1944 War Fund gathered today for a Public Employees' Report luncheon in which they hoped to make a substantial boost in the drive to raise $3,367,000 for the fund before March 22.

Listed as speakers for the luncheon were Maj.-Gen. Sherman Miles, commanding general of the First Service Command; Adm. Robert Theobald, commandant of the First Naval District; Gov. Saltonstall, Mayor Tobin and other military and civic leaders.

As the drive continued, impetus was given today by the report of Corp. Thomas F. Power, of West Springfield, first U. S. Marine to be wounded in action on New Georgia and still carrying in his body one of three Jap machine gun bullets which hit him.

"You go into a fight with plenty of confidence if the figures show your chances are good," he said. "Blood plasma makes these figures look a lot better. I know, because plasma is one of the reasons I'm here now."

He also told how the Red Cross arranged for him to send a 50-word cablegram to his mother to break the news of his wound gently and how Red Cross workers helped during his convalescence.

"They're good people," he said.

Eire

head—where it connects with the boat to Kingstown near Dublin—left London this morning two-thirds empty.

Instead of the usual Monday rush there was only a handful of passengers, many of whom were doubtful about being allowed on the boat although they were using tickets issued before the travel ban was announced.

Irishmen on the train—mainly laborers—were strongly against De Valera.

"What does he want to keep the Germans in Dublin for?" asked Michael Leneham of Carrick-on-Suir. "Germany never gave anything to Ireland and never will."

There was nothing to indicate Allied moves were likely to go as far as the application of economic sanctions against Eire. The British were going slowly, leaving the initiative largely to the United States because of the ancient feud with the Irish, and also for these other practical considerations:

1—Southern Irish volunteers make up a considerable part of the British armed forces.

2—Great numbers of southern Irishmen—they have been estimated as high as a quarter-million—work in British war plants.

 3—The ending of all trade with Eire would in some respects operate to the disadvantage of the British as well as the Irish.
 On both sides public comment was temperate. The biggest paper in Britain, Lord Beaverbrook's Express, subordinated its own editorial comment to that of the New York Times.

IRISH PAPERS' VIEW

The Belfast News Letter centered its editorial on the points that even with the new travel restrictions "the border remains a channel of leakage," and declared "it is difficult to envisage communications and traffic between the two areas remaining unfettered."

De Valera's paper, the Irish Press, declared it still was not clear why the initial American note asking the ouster of Axis diplomats ever was sent and "there could have been only one answer, that which has been given. Its sending can only have resulted from misreading of the whole situation in this country."

It was generally believed in London that the travel ban was only the beginning of British and United States measures to provide strict military security, and the Associated Press correspondent in Dublin said: "Everyone is asking 'what will happen next?'"

Two possibilities stood out—closing of the Eire-Northern Ireland (Ulster) frontier and curtailment of the shipments of wheat, gasoline and coal which Eire imports from Britain and the United States.

RESTRICTIONS SEEN

The Daily Mail, Daily Express and other London newspapers all strongly emphasized the likelihood of restrictions on such Eire imports despite statements from both London and Washington official quarters that economic sanctions were not proposed.

Although the home office order did not affect the customary easy communication between Eire and Northern Ireland, the London Daily Herald said police had instituted a drastic comb-out among the 30,000 Eire workers who have obtained resident permits in Northern Ireland since the war started.

Dublin newspapers printed the travel announcement without comment. There was no immediate official reaction, but some is expected when the Daily meets tomorrow.

"There seems to be no wavering in support of neutrality and of De Valera's stand," the Associated Press Dublin correspondent reported. "The answer to all my questions was 'We knew neutrality and all it implies meant sacrifice.'"

This correspondent said that police were on guard at the German legation in Dublin and allowing no one to loiter around the building. Eduard Hempel, the German minister, lives with his wife and five children near Queens-town.

AUSTRALIA IN ACCORD

Prime Minister Curtin of Australia was quoted today in an Associated Press dispatch from Canberra as announcing that Eire had asked Australia to intervene and secure withdrawal of the American note.

"We said quite definitely Australia was in accord with the American request and hoped the Eire government would see its way clear to agree," Curtin added.

Dies to War on Newscasters

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—Charging that "fully 60 per cent of the statements" of some radio commentators can be "proved to be utterly false," Chairman Dies (D.) of Texas said today the House committee on un-American activities may soon "investigate this matter on the ground that it is distinctly un-American."

50,000 MINERS BACK ON JOB IN BRITAIN

LONDON, March 13 (AP) — Approximately 50,000 of Britain's striking coal miners returned to the pits today in response to appeals from union leaders, but at least 40,000 refused to return to work until the government meets all their wage demands.

The back-to-work movement, which followed a split vote yesterday on the question of continuing the strike, enabled most of the idle mines in north Wales and Scotland to resume operations and their output was expected to be normal by tomorrow.

The situation in the great south Wales fields, which have been virtually paralyzed by the strike, remained critical, however. Among those voting against a return to work were miners in the largest colliery in south Wales—Parc and Dare with 3000 employees.

The holdouts also included virtually all the 8000 miners in the Aberdare valley, about 10,000 in the Rhondda valley and more than 4000 in the Tredegar valley in Monmouthshire.

Welsh mine leaders met today to review the situation and to plan the next step after day-long appeals to the miners yesterday to return to the pits.

South Boston Opens Evacuation Fetes

Boston's weeklong celebration of the 168th anniversary of Evacuation Day, culminating in the colorful South Boston parade next Friday, was under way today after an auspicious start in which the annual historic exercises were held at South Boston High School.

Boston-born Maj. John A. Canavan, South Pacific hero and now commandant of the ASTP school at Boston College, keynoted the exercises as he declared that "it was as true in 1776 as it is today that we are fighting for liberty, the most expensive luxury known to man."

War bonds and stamps were presented to 18 public and parochial school pupils who wrote the best essays on Evacuation Day. Prizes were awarded to Richard O'Donnell, South Boston High School; Marjorie Prescott, Gavin School; Grace Scott, Gaston School; Geraldine Dana, St. Margaret School, and Sally Ann Daley and Mary Connelly of St. Augustine's School.

Other awards were to Edward Mayo and Ralph Henry, South Boston High School; Edna Austinkalins and Wanda Benedycki, Gavin School; William Darche, Lincoln School; Carol Petley, Norchoos School; Barbara Sisk, Nazareth School; Ruth Sterry, Gate of Heaven School; Mary McGrath, SS. Peter and Paul School; Charles Brooks, Gate of Heaven School; William Gavin, St. Margaret's School and James Riley, Nazareth School.

Rev. William J. Daley, of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, supervisor of schools of the archdiocese, presented the awards. Mayor Tobin extended the city's greetings and the declamation was read by Mary Drennan of St. Augustine's High School. The celebration climaxes with the traditional night-before banquet at Hotel Vendome at which Sen. David L. Walsh will speak.

BACK FROM HELL . . . By Burris Jenkins, Jr.

THE first Jap prisoner—a cringing little fellow in cloven shoes and horn-rimmed spectacles—tip-toed naked, carrying his clothes in a modest bundle over his stomach, between four six-foot marines with tommy-guns. Of course, everybody laughed . . .

In ignorant surprise the men shout, "So this is what we're fighting—little jerks like him!" Because they didn't know about Japs then. Nobody knew . . . the world hadn't yet heard about Batuan . . .

When, three nights later, another Jap comes into camp to surrender—this one a navy petty officer—they believe his story. If he tells them there is a large group of the enemy waiting in the rule books of war up to that moment to make an American question a flag of truce.

Arnie Edelstein, of New York City—just a second lieutenant then—doesn't accompany the "peace patrol" that night. But he knows all of them pretty well—a colonel, two captains, a top sergeant, and 22 more highly-rated enlisted men, including his friend, Platoon Sgt. Arndt.

The next time he sees their bodies they are ripped and ridiculed beyond recognition—all except three . . .

26 Men and Officers Form Beachhead

The barge steals down the shoreline in the glassy darkness as 26 men and officers laugh and joke and sing softly until the colored orderlies at the boat turn in to the spot on the beach where the Japs are waiting to surrender. The men try not to make noise, even when the lighter grounds on a sandbar and has to be pulled over it. They pile out on the beach. They form a small beachhead while the officers and the first sergeant talk in whispers. The jungle is only a few feet from the water. After 10 minutes the officers and the first sergeant start for the fringe of coconut trees.

As at a signal the shoreline comes alive with rifle flashes and Sgt. Arndt recognizes the screens of Japs being lit by good American bullets, but they are not for one of the members of the detachment on the beach because the captain has ordered them to hold their fire until the coast comes back.

But the colonel doesn't come back. The other captain and the first sergeant crawl out finally, cursing bitterly, but there is nothing to do but wait for the sound of a call or a cry from the colonel.

Sgt. Arndt wriggles up to the captain's side and says to the colonel, "Can't we go in and get him?"

MARINE CAPT. ARNIE EDELSTEIN OF N.Y.C.—HIS RESCUE PARTY CAME TOO LATE TO SAVE A LOST PATROL

HE WANTS UNTIL THE JAPS GET WITHIN 20 YARDS AND THEN HE FIRES ONE SHOT. A JAP FALLS; THE OTHER ONE RUNS.

AROUND THE BODIES OF MURDERED AMERICANS—HALF BURIED IN THE SAND—

At last his feet touch a coral reef extending into water from the shore and Arndt hoes in a crevice to rest. The Japs come out to look for him. Arndt waits with a strange coolness, without a trace of fear, his hand as steady as the colonel. He waits until one Jap gets within 20 yards and then he fires. One shot. The Jap falls, the other one runs.

Shelling Sub Delays Message

Arndt, scrambling over the coral to the shore, not feeling the gashes in his legs and hands, starts running down the beach until he stumbles over a half-buried native canoe. He turns up for the water and with a board paddles out a mile from shore until he gets one of our tank lighters anchored off shore. He wakes the crew and they are ordered to open fire on the Japs. The Japs are in the water and he is a good thing he takes this

Justice for Veterans

"FOUR COUNTRY takes these sacrifices with indifference it will be the cruelest ingratitude the world has ever known."

That was written by Ensign William R. Evans, Jr., of Torpedo Squadron 8, in a letter to a friend in the United States shortly before he was reported missing in action at the Battle of Midway on June 4, 1942.

It is published, with other letters from our fighters, both living and dead, by the Industrial Incentive Division of the Navy Department.

As these letters, to friends, mothers and wives, were never intended for the public eye they have a patriotic and emotional value.

They are heroic.

They are appealing.

They say to Congress:

"Here we are, the living and dead of our beloved country.

"We, the dead, appeal to you to pass the All-Veterans' Bill of Rights.

"Those of us who survive merely ask that in return for our work the Congress of the United States shall see that we are not part of the Unwanted Battalion.

"We do not ask charity.

"We ask justice.

"We ask for a square deal for those of our comrades who are not capable of caring for themselves."

ENSIGN EVANS never returned from the valiant attack in which Torpedo Squadron 8, in the face of terrible odds, broke the back of the Japanese offensive against Midway.

His last letter contains these heroic words from the deep heart of America itself:

"Many of my friends are now dead.

"To a man, each died with a nonchalance that each would have denied was courage but simply called a lack of fear and forgot the triumph.

"If anything good or great has been born of this war, it should not be valued in the colonies we may win nor in the pages that historians will attempt to write, but rather in the youth of our country who were never trained for war and who almost never believed in war, but who have, from some hidden source, brought forth a gallantry which is homespun it is so real."

That is the essence of the Veterans' Bill of Rights now before Congress.

In action for postwar care, physical, financial and mental, for our veterans, the All-Veterans' Bill of Rights does not lay stress on our conquests.

It does not lay stress on fame.

It is pivoted on the man himself, on the American, on the personal needs and wants of the individual soldier.

And from a practical standpoint, too, the Bill of Rights should be passed as soon as possible.

REPRESENTATIVE LEMKE, of North Dakota, pointed this out in a recent speech in the House when he said:

"Let us now get busy and pass a real rehabilitation bill.

"The time to do that is now.

"Let us pass a bill that will prevent another unemployment catastrophe.

"When this war is ended there will be 15,000,000 civilians that will have to seek employment elsewhere than in war and munitions factories.

"Then there will be 11,000,000 soldiers returning."

The Bill of Rights is that "REAL REHABILITATION BILL."

Let Congress and the nation remember the words of Ensign Evans:

"If our country takes these sacrifices with indifference it will be the cruelest ingratitude the world has ever known."

Let not "cruelest ingratitude" be branded on the shield of the American Republic!

On the Side

Distributed by King Features Synd., Inc.
To be born with a gift of laughter
And a sense that the world is mad,
—RAFAEL SABATINI.

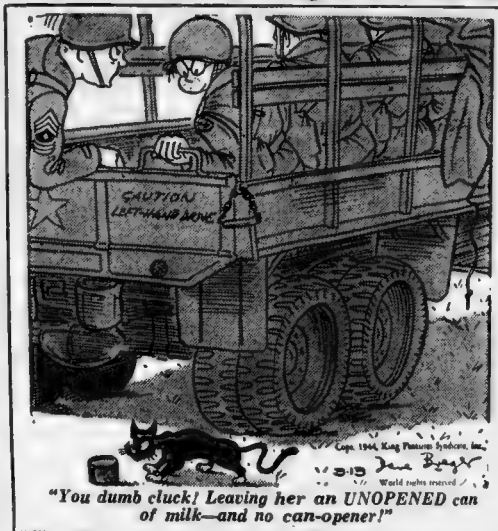

THIS was the prize winning answer to the question, "What Makes Life Worth Living?" . . . "I have known Gen. Montgomery, of the British Eighth Army, since he was 1½ years old," writes F. H. Swayne of Victoria, B. C. "He was a boyhood playmate of mine in Ireland. The general, though born in London, is definitely Irish. In a recent speech his mother, Lady Montgomery, said her son was 'proud of being an Irishman.' So old boy, I guess you owe me a stogie, whatever that is."

ASIDES: Restaurant and cocktail bars had the greatest advance in business in 1943. After that jewelry stores . . . Now London fears Hitler, growing desperate, will resort to germ warfare. Might be possible. Before this war the Germans made no secret of their studies of germ warfare. The Japs have already used this type of warfare in China . . . Sweden is a neutral country but, nevertheless it is against the law in Gothenburg to call anybody "a Nazi." The Gothenburg police court recently ruled "the term Nazi is an insult" and anybody applying it to another person can be fined.

PASSING BY: Grace Moore. Opera lark. I still remember her singing "All Alone By the Telephone" in the "Music Box Revue of 1923" . . . Gerorgette Cohan, daughter of George M. Cohan and Ethel Levey. A fact often overlooked and not touched upon in Mr. Cohan's filmed biography is that he was quite a family man. He had four children: Gerorgette, George M., Jr., Helen and Mary . . . Marlene Dietrich. Another top flight film star who will entertain the troops on the fighting fronts. When may we expect such shining lights of the legitimate stage as Katharine Cornell, Helen Hayes and Elizabeth Bergner to follow the Hollywood stars' excellent example?

SIDELIGHTS: Chicago has apartment houses that were especially built for families with children. Good, Old Chicago! London has 7200 women bus and tram conductors. This brings to mind that on San Francisco street cars there are the signs reading: "Women wanted to run this car. Original crew running Japs through jungles."

HUSBANDS, ETC.: In addition to his many other achievements, Herbert Hoover was a highly successful husband. Only about 40 per cent of husbands really make their wives happy, but Mr. Hoover has concrete evidence he is one of this minority. Mrs. Herbert Hoover wrote a letter to her sons Allan and Herbert, Jr., to be read after her death. It said, in part: "You have been lucky boys to have had such a father and I am a lucky woman to have had my life's trail alongside the paths of three such fine men and boys."

PLEASE NOTE: Merle Oberon, like Greer Garson and Judith Evelyn, tired of playing parts calling for the wearing of long skirts. She, too, wanted to have a short skirted part to show the public she had legs. In "The Lodger" she had such a part. On her performance the critic of the London News-Review commented: "Usually seen on the screen in long gowns Merle Oberon goes to the opposite extreme portraying a variety actress dancing the cancan but her legs need not cause Betty Grable any qualms."

BRIEFLY: Matrimonial expert states 25 per cent of the time of the first nine months of marriage is spent arguing as to the naming of the first child. I thought it was 45 per cent of the time. How much was it at your house? . . . A New Yorker suggests every man who has served overseas in World War I or the present war be given two votes in all elections. A kindly idea, but not practical. Anyway, after this war, the American Legion will have enough votes to make itself felt in all elections.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q.—Some of the boys around your favorite cigar store in Saratoga were wondering if the Spa would have a race meet this summer. How about it? And will you be here to enjoy it? A.—Saratoga will have both harness and running races this summer, but I will not be there . . . Q.—Didn't Richard Bennett play in "Kick In"? A.—Yes, sir. In a road company in 1913. Your memory seems to be clicking nicely. I have made a note of your name so I won't bet you any stogies.

BROKEN HEARTS: Hollywood is referred to as "Heartbreak Town" and it has been said "there is a broken heart for every light on Broadway." The broken hearts referred to are due not to unrequited love but frustrated ambition. Most of this type of broken hearts are possessed by men. The unsuccessful man suffers not only disappointment but his pride is hurt. His faith in himself shaken. He is never the same again. On the other hand, the disappointed career girls usually view the situation philosophically. Their hearts are rarely broken. When a young woman fails to make the Broadway or Hollywood grade, she doesn't look for a bridge to jump from. She starts looking around for a husband.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Some years ago when Vittorio Mussolini was in Hollywood, Joan Crawford refused to dance with him. This burned Il Duce up so much he ordered Miss Crawford's films barred in Italy. Still there is no doubt Joan had the right idea and is good judge of character. The flashy Vittorio Mussolini is now in Berlin as a representative of the Italian Fascists . . . Now I have a reader in Puyallup, Wash. He says there was night horse racing in his town in 1933. A resident of Indiana informs me there immediately after the war there will be night running horse racing in his State at some place near Chicago. The Indiana law, says he, permits running horse racing with mutual betting, but specifically states no such races can be held "before sundown."

MAILOMAT: The "Mailomat" is a slot machine that stamps postage on a letter up to any amount and returns change up to a dollar. The Canadian Postoffice Department is experimenting with this machine. Most United States postoffice stamp windows close at 6 o'clock. After that there should be some stamp vending machines available. Taxpayers should not be compelled to go around begging drugstores and cigar stands to sell them stamps.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 13—One of the most startling books on the war is "A Bell for Adano," John Hersey's best-selling novel. Darryl F. Zanuck read it and bought it before it had reached its present tide of popularity.

The hero is an Italian-American, and, between you and me, Spencer Tracy is yearning for a crack at it, and maybe you don't think he is the one Darryl wants. Spence made "Stanley and Livingstone" for Zanuck and liked his assignment there. So, I reckon a little borrowing will go on, and in return for Spence Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will get one of 20th's best bits.

A CABLE from England reveals an important deal between 20th Century-Fox and Arthur Rank, kingpin of the British film industry. Spyros Skouras, now in London, has arranged that 20th produce a series of pictures in collaboration with Rank. And here, my friends, is the plan. "There Shall Be No Night," the play in which Lynn Fontaine and Alfred Lunt have made such a tremendous hit, both in America and abroad, will be the first to be made under the aegis of Rank. 20th already owns the rights. And Lynn and Alfred, who are in London, will be invited to play the roles they created on the stage.

IDA LUPINO goes into retirement for three months for a rest. Her doctor has ordered her not even to discuss motion pictures during that time. I talked to her a few days ago and she said: "I am sorry not to be able to do 'The Very Thought of You' at Warners, but I'm just not well enough. I made too many pictures last year and I am jittery and nervous and don't want to have a breakdown. I'm not going out of town, but will just stay home and remain out of circulation for a while to get well." Ida has been under a pretty bad strain for her husband, Capt. Louis Hayward, who went through the horrors at Tarawa, has been much sicker than any one knows.

YOU COULDN'T listen to Bill Marshall's happiness over getting the juvenile lead in "Belle of the Yukon" without feeling glad for him. He has been discharged from the Army because of a head injury, and International borrowed him from 20th Century-Fox for this role opposite Dinah Shore. He's a piano player and in one breath told me the whole story. "It's just wonderful," he said, "and to make it perfect, Michele has her American citizenship papers." Bill is particularly happy because his bride, Michele Morgan, is expecting a baby.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Good news to Betty Grable's friends and admirers that she is coming along nicely and will be able to go home Thursday. The baby is a beauty. She looks just like Betty—same big blue eyes and blonde hair, and if ever there was a proud mother it is the pinup girl who, like all proud mothers, thinks her child the most beautiful. The baby is thriving and has been all right from the beginning, despite rumors she was sick. Betty feels she wants to rest until November, but I have an idea summer will see her back at the studio.

IDA LUPINO
Takes Needed Vacation

RAY BOLGER, whose dancing so delighted the boys in the South Pacific, is about to sign an M-G-M contract. This really means he returns to his alma mater, for Ray was there and scored a distinct hit in "The Wizard of Oz." He made other pictures, too. He is at his best when he dances. Ray is a comedian. There are plenty of comedians, but few who can dance with his grace and ease.

A LINE OR TWO: Johnny Weissmuller will get his information on how to play a Marine correspondent first hand. He leaves Saturday for a week at the Marine boot camp in San Diego, so his dialogue will be strictly the real McCoy. This will be the first picture in which Mr. Tarzan does more than grunt. He wears clothes, too, and nary a Leopard skin, which is a break for him. The movie is to be made on the Paramount lot by Pine and Thomas. . . . When some of the aviators in China heard Paulette Goddard was to fly to the various camp rivalries became so keen the officers decided to let the boys draw to see who would win the privilege. The Goddard gal will come home with plenty of stories. If I know her . . . Martha Scott and Carlton Alsop are wishing they hadn't sold their ranch as now they haven't a place to live. That's happening to lots of people who sell their homes. . . . Anna Sten's stepdaughter, Anna Frencke, daughter of Eugene Frencke, makes her movie debut in "America's Children" at Columbia. She's about 18.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Maybe it's love with Ann Miller and Barney Glazer—looks like it; John Gunther and Marianna O'Brien, looking utterly happy, having dinner for two; Anne Gwynne and Richard Powers take the matrimonial plunge any day; Turhan Bey, 'tis said, is believing all his publicity, and it's too bad. He was such a nice kid before he played in the Katharine Hepburn movie; George Raft phoned Mrs. Carroll to say he had seen her son, John, "Over There"; Lionel Barrymore took Spencer Tracy to dine with Ethel Barrymore and it was a reunion. He had known Spence in his stage days; Gene Autry goes into the Ferry Command and will be stationed at Detroit; Oscar Homolka gets here March 22 to talk with Ed ("Hitler's Children") Golden about "The Master Race"; Melvyn Douglas is in India. Thought we hadn't heard about him in a long time; Gracie MacDonald, who lost her father a few months ago, received the good news her mother had successfully come through an operation; Errol Flynn, in Atlas, Utah, on a holiday, has been telephoning Nora Eddington pretty regularly; Chili Williams, who tested at Warners, has gone back to modeling in New York at a salary of $350 a week—not bad; Helmut Dantine, who gets around more than any actor in Hollywood, is now smiling upon Dolores Moran. That's all today.

My Day

By Eleanor Roosevelt

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Sunday—In St. Thomas, one of the Virgin Islands, we were met by the acting governor, Mr. Morris F. De Castro and his wife and Army, Navy and Marine Corps officers. I spoke to the Marines, Coast Guard and Navy men, then stayed in the hospital and then drove through the submarine base and into town, going to the Army establishment where Puerto Rican soldiers are now stationed.

I went to the Red Cross and to Capt. Baisley's home, where the civilian officials and the press met me. Then back to the Marine Corps base where we lunched in the men's mess, and I moved from one table to another in order to meet as many men as possible.

Back in Puerto Rico, we landed at a naval base, visited some of the personnel and buildings, and then drove through the Army base, which is still under construction.

WE VISITED ANOTHER camp on the way back to La Fortaleza and stopped at the U. S. O. in Caguas.

In this U. S. O. I met two discharged veterans. One was in a hospital in Fiji last August when I went through, and I saw him there. The other one was injured in Africa.

In one of the camps, I was fortunate enough to see Pvt. Richard P. Thomas, who was brought over to see me as I mentioned to one of the officers that I had a letter from his sister asking me to see him if possible. He had no idea why he was brought over, and seemed very much surprised when he was introduced to me and I asked him how he was so I could send word to his sister.

ADELINE WALKER, pretty English bridesmaid who caught the bouquet at Terrell Porter's wedding to Ensign Henry Ernest Cooper 3d, left Boston last night for Montreal where she has a job waiting for her in the British Civil Service.

Terrell Porter Weds Ensign Cooper

Madeline and Terry graduated from Radcliffe two weeks ago and the former has since been a house guest of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Terrell Porter, of Waltham, Terry's parents.

The newlywed ensign and his bride are off on a short honeymoon after which they will live in Boston while he is stationed at Harvard. They were married Saturday by Rev. Anthony Regamey at Piety Corner Chapel, and a reception followed at Piety Corner Club. White stock and calla lilies decorated the chapel for the candlelight ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, Terry wore white French satin made on princess lines and trimmed with Duchess lace to match her grandmother's exquisite lace veil which fell the full length of her train. She carried white orchids and freesia.

The attendants were Mrs. John W. Magoffin of Manchester, N. H., Elizabeth Howe of Ottawa, Susan Kenny of Buckingham, Quebec, and Madeline Walker. They wore white lace and net gowns and carried yellow freesia and gerbera to match their flower headdresses. Mrs. Porter received in a pale blue bengaline suit dress with a black and white flowered hat and corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Wallace M. Cooper of Hemet, Cal., mother of the groom, chose a beige sheer suit, a black and rose flower hat and corsage of sweetheart roses with a green orchid center.

Ensign Francis B. Critchlow, Jr., of Los Angeles was best man and the usher staff included four other ensigns, Lieut. John W. Magoffin and Richard B. Bailey of Weston.

THE ENGAGEMENT of Jane Towne to Richard W. Johnston, USA, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Towne of Topsfield. The bride-to-be, a graduate of Abbot Academy and Miss Child's in Boston, is in her third year at the Museum School of Fine Arts. Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Johnston of Chestnut st., was in the class of 1940 at M. I. T. where he is at present studying advanced engineering in the Army Specialized Training Program.

Oratory Test Wins Praise of Theobald

Encouragement was given the students of Boston parochial and public high schools, colleges and universities today by Rear Admiral Robert A. Theobald, commandant of the First Naval District, Boston Navy Yard, when he paid a glowing tribute to John Paul Jones, America's pioneer naval hero, the subject of the oratory contest nationally sponsored by the Hearst newspapers.

In an expression praising the courage of the Revolutionary hero, Admiral Theobald stated:

"John Paul Jones typifies the fighting tradition of the United States Navy. His valor and exploits are an inspiration for each succeeding generation of America's fighting seamen. American students should be encouraged to study the life and achievements of the first of the nation's great naval leaders as an incentive to patriotism."

Emerson College is the most recent educational institution to enroll its students in the contest, and Prof. Grover Shaw has pledged co-operation of his English department. Outstanding in the Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Oratorical Contest when an Emerson College student was a prize winner, the college is determined this year to equal its past showing.

Less than two weeks remain for high school and college groups to send in the names of winners of their respective schools, as the last date for sending in the names of the winners is March 24. The Boston eliminations will be held March 31 in Faneuil Hall, only a week after the entry-closing date.

The nation's distinguished military and civic leaders sponsor the oratory competition honoring the first great naval hero of our democracy, with Adm. Ernest J. King, Commander-in-Chief of the United States Fleet, as honorary national chairman.

Topping the glittering array of awards are twin acts of War Bond prizes totaling $20,000. Added to these is a grand prize of $1000 for each division winner, plus trips to Washington and Annapolis.

Winners in the Boston contest will compete in the eastern zone finals, with New York, Baltimore and Albany. In New York city on April 13, and from them will be culled the winners eligible for the national finals in New York on Tuesday night, April 18.

Lee Waits Reply To F. D. Letter

Former School Committeeman Joseph Lee today awaited a reply to a letter sent President Roosevelt in which he charged foremen of defense plants threatened reprisals against employees who planned to be Ely-pledged candidates to the Democratic national convention.

Lee charged that 12 delegates in one ward were afraid of having their names appear as candidates on the anti-Administration slate being formed under Charles H. McGue, former Democratic state committee chairman.

"Some of the prospects," Lee wrote, "who have declined a place on this ticket, all of them from a section at sharp variance with any of your policies, allege that their foremen in defense plants engaged in government work have informed them they will be fired if they become a candidate pledged to our former governor."

Whaddaya say fokes, have you all done yer part in the big Red Cross drive? Don't forget it may be yer kid, yer brother or friend or whoever you know in da service, who is gittin' da benefit of da help you give. Even a kind word is a big part in da battle in da bigsome days on dem far-off fightin' fronts, but you kin bet yer boys dat da Red Cross is doin' a lot more dan that, and if you don't think so then ask de boys who've come back... Got another great new show in me El Tropico Room this week, featuring Dixie Faye, a laugh treat dat will have you wakin' up laughin' in da middle of de night fer da two weeks after you first get a glimpse of him... Absolutely da funniest impersonator dat ever impersonated. Fer new talent you'll find Murphy and Pharr, a comedy team direct from de nation's leading theatres, who do a bit of McKing on de side. Also, Francesca and Pete, comedy dancing of de type dat you will git a big kick out of and S. S. George, a comedian with a real tricky bag. At de corner, if yer a service man or a defense worker, dere's no use me throwin' in dis plug about me Grille, coz you have probably already heard about it being da bestest and most popular jitterbug spot in downtown Boston, especially in da afternoon, wid dappin' from noon daily till de late hours at night. Best time in town, visit me Grille and El Tropico Room, 25 Essex St. Advt.

Tonight

WILBUR—"MRS. JANUARY & MR. EX," the new Zoe Akins comedy starring Billie Burke and Frank Craven, opens a two-week engagement here under auspices of Producer Richard Myers. The story stems from the decision of wealthy, fashionable and slightly scatterbrained Lily January to alter her extravagant way of life in preparation for the post-war era. Hollywood's Adrian designed a "country wardrobe" for Lily's "simple" life in a small New England village. Supporting players include Barbara Bel Geddes, Helen Carew, Edward Nannery, Henry Barnard, Bobby Perez, Richard Temple, Henry Vincent, Mlle. Theres Quadi and others. Paul Morrison designed sets. Elliott Nugent directed.

Continuing

SHUBERT—"FOLLOW THE GIRLS," Dave Wolper's nautical musical production with Gertrude Neisen, of stage, screen and radio; the ballet's Irina Baranova and radio tenor Frank Parker in leading roles. Featured are Jackie Gleason, Tim Herbert, Buster West, Val Valentini, Dorothy Keller, Toni Gilman, Lee Davis and Jayne and Adam Di-Catano. The book is by Guy Bolton and Eddie Davis with additional dialogue by Fred Thompson, Dan Shapiro, Milton Pascal and Phil Chanig who wrote the music and lyrics.

COLONIAL—"JANIE," Brock Pemberton's successful comedy which has been playing to packed houses here for the past two weeks, will end its local en-agement on Saturday night. Importantly featured are Grant Mills, Gertrude Beach, Howard St. John, Betty Breckinridge, Nancy Cushman, Bill Thomson, Hugh Thomas and Frank Wilson. MISSION CHURCH, ROXBURY—"PILATE'S DAUGHTER," oldest American Passion play written by Rev. Francis L. Kenzel and now in its 42d year, continues its bi-weekly Lenten performances on Thursday evenings at 8:30 and Sunday afternoons at 2:30.

March 20

PLYMOUTH—"CHICKEN EVERY SUNDAY," a new comedy by the Epstein brothers, Hollywood screenwriters, based on Rosemary Taylor's best-selling novel, brings

Mary Phillips and Rhys Williams at head of cast including Frank Thomas and Katherine Squire. Produced by Edward Gross. Directed by Lester Vail. COLONIAL—"ARSENIC AND OLD LACE," with Bela Lugosi succeeding Boris Karloff in the third return engagement of Joseph O. Kesselring's thrill farce about genteel Brooklyn spinsters and poisoned sideberry wine. Supporting players are Jean Adair, Jack Whiting, Ruth McDevitt and Ann Lincoln.

March 27

WILBUR—"PRETTY LITTLE PARLOR," new play by Claborn Foster featuring Stella Adler and Sidney Blackmer, opens a two-week run here. Supporting cast includes Augusta Dabne, Marilyn Krinks, Paul Parks, Nele Roberts, Walter Kelly, Edward Seely and Mildred Price.

April 3

COLONIAL—"SHEEP," Somerset Maugham's play to be produced by Jacques Chabrun and directed by Sir Cedric Hardwicke with Edmund Gwenn and Ben-bars Everest in leading roles. The play has been revised since its London production in 1935.

April 10

SHUBERT—"DREAM WITH MUSIC," the new Kigallen-Sheiden-Roberts musical comedy co-starring Vera Zorina and Ronald Graham and featuring Betty Allen. Music by Buck Warrick. Dances by George Balanchine. Production by Richard Koltman. OPERA HOUSE—"THE MASKED BALL," with Jan Peerce, Leonard Warren, Zinka Milanov, Kerstin Thorberg, Frances Greer, John Baker, Nicola Moscona, John Dudley and Ludovico, will initiate the Metropolitan Opera Company's forthcoming season here.

drama which opened here earlier in the season and is now on Broadway will be represented by a second company at a theater not yet announced.

April 17

COLONIAL—"A CONNECTICUT YANKEE," the Rodgers-Fields-Hart musical comedy revival with Vivienne Regal and Dick Kavan which has been pleasing Broadway customers will pause here for a fortnight.

ON OUR SCHEDULE of stories for the week . . . this one appears most exciting . . . for it reveals the secret of that look-alive allure . . . that young, velvety-skin look in the luscious "Varga Girl" way . . . which most of us seek . . . and NOW can be had in a jiffy.

I'm all agog about this twin-makeup package . . . and you will be, too. For the first time . . . you can have your perfect shade of makeup foundation right in the same box with your glamorizing shade of face powder. It is indeed exciting to be able to get the two items in one box . . . assuring a perfect blend of the both cosmetics.

No hit or miss tactics in getting powder to match the foundation now . . . All you do is select one of the six glorious shades . . . keyed to specific skin types . . . and be certain of the flattering effects the beauty twins will create for your complexion.

If you have the arbutus-like skin . . . the delicate transparency of the true blonde . . . naturelle is your shade. Luscious peach bloom will be yours if you have the fair, rose freshness of the moss rose in your complexion.

The newest shade is the sunflower type . . . southern rose . . . expertly blended for the gold-kissed brunette skin to make it more vibrant and tinged with gold. Then, too, this newest shade is such a lush, deep shade . . . you'll want to save it for the summer months to blend softly with your sun-tanned complexion. Southern Rose is dazzling for dark beauty.

POWDER IS OF EXQUISITE TEXTURE

Most of us wouldn't be caught without a foundation on our face . . . but in many instances . . . it has been one heck of a job securing just the exact shade of face powder to match it. Now our worries are over . . . thanks to this cosmetic house with vision to supply beauty-minded gals with a makeup and face powder all in one. And, the powder is of exquisite texture . . . velvety by an exclusive process.

All you do . . . is sponge on this new velvet makeup and instantly you'll note that your skin looks more flawless than ever . . . sort of magically dispelling slight complexion blemishes. Then you smooth on the matching powder . . . and presto . . . you'll say that you look excitingly lovely . . . even to yourself.

But . . . best of all . . . both the items . . . cost only one dollar. Many of us have paid more than one dollar for the foundation cake alone. Now we can get the whole thrilling twin makeup both for the one greenback. Do you wonder why I said . . . this story appears the most exciting of the week?

For the name of this dollar twin makeup box with foundation and powder to match, phone the Beauty Dept. Liberty 4000, except the week-end, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

That Office Wolf

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN—I work in an office and my boss seems very fond of me. He pays a lot of attention to me during the day, and the girls are beginning to remark about this, although I have been there only a short time. He is a married man, and his wife works in the same building. Last night I worked overtime, and he asked me to go to dinner with him. I refused and this made him very angry. I refused because I know his wife, and I thought if someone saw us together, there would be too much talk. Do you think I did the right thing?

WONDERING.

Yes, I know you did the right thing . . . and you know you did, too. The girls who have been in the office longer than you have, undoubtedly were on the lookout to see if this "wolf" would try the same antics with you that he probably tries with every new girl. Don't think it's your charm . . . it's only his despicable technique. Don't work overtime with him alone. If he insists on this, give up your position. There isn't a position in the world more important than your self respect, your safety.

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

MUST YOU GO? When you rise to leave, your hostess also rises and remains standing until you go. Once you start to go, don't prolong your departure.

NEW BEAUTY BLOSSOMS . . . as luscious as the "Varga Girl" skin flawlessness . . . in a cosmetic find . . . a twin makeup of foundation and matching powder. A new item in the galaxy of cosmetic stars . . . this twin package is a thrilling and exciting adventure in facial glorification . . . producing a look-alive allure comparable to the startling beauty of Twentieth-Century-Fox Starlet Vivian Blaine.

Serious Problem For This Girl of 16

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX—My married sister who is employed often asks me to take care of her children. Her husband seems to think that because he's my brother-in-law he can kiss me, and he tries to get "fresh" with me. The only way I can keep him at a distance is to threaten to tell my sister and the only reason I don't tell her is that I can't bear to hurt her. I wouldn't want to see anything happen to her marriage.

I don't know what to do—shall I tell my parents or shall I tell my sister?

WORRIED SCHOOL GIRL.

As this situation is full of dynamite, you should confide in someone, and it seems to me wiser that you tell your mother. It would hurt your sister deeply if she knew these things about her husband. And it's likely, if your mother is a woman of tact, she can make excuses to prevent you from going to your sister's home without revealing what a contemptible cad her son-in-law is, in trying to take advantage of a 16-year-old girl.

By MARTHA LEE

THERE'S many a cold, nasty, rainy day ahead of us before May flowers will rise and shine. Colds are still lurking around the corner. We must still mind our M's and V's—minerals and vitamins—and eat foods to help convey us through these uncertain days.

Science tells us that an iron-deficiency anemia is one reason why many a system is run down—why we are easy prey to such hazards as spring colds. A lack of iron means a lack of red blood—red blood needed for glowing health. Molasses is a tried and true source of blood-building iron. Second only to liver in available iron, it is unrationed and the least expensive food source so essential in the building of a healthy blood stream.

From morning to night, from breakfast to before-bedtime snack, molasses can top our early French toast, cereal, griddle cakes or hot bread as well as put interest into our before-bed milke shake.

FRENCH TOAST

1 egg 2 tbsp. molasses
1 cup milk 8 slices of bread
Pinch of salt

Beat egg, milk, salt and molasses together. Dip slices of bread, covering each side thoroughly with the mixture. Fry until golden brown.

RYE PANCAKES

1 cup flour 1 tsp. soda
1 cup rye meal 1/2 cup molasses
1 cup sour milk 1 beaten egg or buttermilk

Mix and sift flour and meal. Add sour milk with soda stirred in until it foams. Add molasses and beat well. Add beaten egg and stir in well. Drop by tablespoonfuls on greased hot griddle. When bubbly, turn and bake other side. Serve hot with molasses.

CORN MEAL GRIDDLE CAKES

1 1/2 cups corn 3/4 cup water
meal 3/4 cup milk
1/2 cup flour 1 tbsp. molasses
4 tsp. baking 1 beaten egg powder 1 cup melted
1/2 tsp. salt butter

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Add water, milk and molasses gradually, then well beaten egg. Beat thoroughly; add melted butter last. Drop by tablespoonfuls on hot griddle or heavy iron frying pan. Cook on one side. When puffed, full of bubbles and cooked on edges, turn and cook on other side. Serve with molasses.

MOLASSES MILK SHAKE

1 glass milk 1 tbsp. molasses
Add molasses to milk and stir until thoroughly combined.

GINGERSNAPS

1 cup melted 1 egg, beaten
shortening 4 1/2 cups flour
1 cup molasses 1 tbsp. ginger
1/2 tsp. lemon 1 tsp. soda
extract 1 tsp. salt

Combine shortening and molasses.

THE WELL-DRESSED woman will want to include in her spring wardrobe . . . this soft, ruffled-trimmed Forstmann wool frock in spring violet for Easter Sunday . . . since the prettier, more sentimental and feminine feeling permeates spring 1944. It is a slimming model, flattering to the figure. The pretty matching violet hat . . . with soft, creamy full-blown roses at the forehead . . . accents the feminine trend in fashions.—R. M.

ses and lemon extract. Add egg and stir until mixture is blended. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add. Chill dough until firm enough to roll. Roll about 1/4 inch thick, cut and bake on a greased cookie sheet at 375 deg. F. 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 5 dozen 2 1/2 inch cookies.

Conversation Tip

In conversation, if you show a kindly interest in others, a generous wish to please them and a friendly willingness to take your share in the give-and-take of the conversation, you'll do all right with even a trivial topic. Spirited "small talk" is a mighty social ally, gracefully used in our daily contacts. It lands lightly on a topic . . . but doesn't settle down on it.—Mrs. Beekman.

Pint-Size Tricorne

By BETTINA BEDWELL

ITEM of interest to all prospective purchasers of that Easter bonnet is the news that the pint-size tricorne is a millinery fashion. Worn in a nose-dive over the forehead, this hat has points that make it mighty attractive.

Most of the top-flight millinery designers have tiny tricornes lurking somewhere in their spring shows, and I have selected one for you to see. This model is from Braagard. It is made of emerald green rough straw and is trimmed with fluttering bows of gay pink and white checked taffeta ribbon set at each of the three angles.

Tiny hats like this that leave the sides of the head out in the open may be worn with the new earrings that rise to the top of the ears, like the one shown in this sketch.

BACK HOME FROM Florida, I first wish to salute Sal Bartolo of East Boston who won the NBA end of the world's featherweight championship when he easily outscored Phil Terranova in a 15-round bout at the Garden. . . Bartolo, who came up from the sidewalks of East Boston to gain his first fame in an All-America amateur boxing tournament conducted by this newspaper, proved he possesses the qualities that go to make a champion.

Bartolo was the first graduate of the All-America tournament to win a world's championship. . . There will be many others in post-war days when the All-America tournaments will be resumed.

Speaking of the amateurs.

Tam Sheehan of the New England A. A. U. has a honor tryout show for the New England championships at the Arena tonight. . . Each class is loaded with top flight boxers, most of whom are in the various branches of the armed forces. . . Tonight's is the first of two tryout tournaments. . . Then will come the finals in the Arena.

Amateur boxing has always been popular in Boston. . . It furnishes intense competition, stirring action and some good boxing. . . Sheehan predicts that tonight's show will come up to the highest of standards.

The success of the Tech basketball tournament, with a crowd of 10,000 attending the final game, means that the cage game has finally clicked in Boston. . . Lieut. Col. Walter Brown and Tom Kinnear spent $10,000 to install a proper basketball setup at the Garden. . . It helped toward putting the Tech tournament over in a large way.

In a recent interview at South Bend, Indiana, with this writer, Frank Leahy, Notre Dame athletic director, stated there was not any reason why basketball should not be as successful in Boston as in other major cities. . . I know Leahy, as well as other friends of basketball, will be gratified by the reception given to the Tech tournament.

Store Clerk's Mistake

A GIRL CLERK in a swanky department store at West Palm Beach, Fla., will tell you it is well to skip the shopworn remark of sales people, "Don't you know there is a war on?"

A lady customer complained to the clerk about some merchandise she was offered.

"Don't you know there is a war on?" snapped the girl clerk.

The customer studied the girl's face and then fell in a cold faint on the floor. . . Looking through the customer's pocketbook for papers of identification, the manager of the store found a telegram from the War Department which told of the recent death of her son in action in Italy.

When the customer revived, the manager of the store sent her to her home in a taxicab accompanied by a nurse. . . The clerk was fired.

Millions of Americans not in uniform have many close, personal reasons for knowing there is a war on. . . They do not parade their war wounds whatever they may be, and they are carrying on like the men at the front. . . Too many people have been getting away with inferior commodities and service and excessive prices by hiding behind such remarks as "Don't you know there is a war on?" . . . There is at least one store clerk who will never make this mistake again.

Cheers for Sharkey

I AM TOLD that Jack Sharkey received the greatest ovation of his career when he entered the ring at the Garden on Friday night to referee a boxing bout. . . Sharkey's recent tour of the Army camps in Africa made a wide appeal to service men and to the public. . . I just received a letter from Tom Sheehan, Yank correspondent in Africa and former Boston newspaperman and racing official.

"Sharkey received tremendous receptions from service men wherever he made appearances," wrote Tom. . . "He always knew what to do and say when appearing before our fighting men. . . He did much for their morale. . . Get Jack to tell you about his visit to Andy Callahan's old division. . . It is a wonderful story. . . Jack visited Bob Nestel in the hospital. . . He also met Dick Madden. . . Fred Corcoran made the tour with Sharkey, and he says Jack was an outstanding attraction everywhere."

I talked with Sharkey before he left for Africa. . . He recognized all of the dangers in connection with his trip, but gladly assumed them as he felt he could be of service to our fighting men.

Welch, LaMotta Train in Hub

Two of the nation's toughest middleweights since the days of Harry Greb start training in Boston today when "duration" champion, Jake LaMotta of New York, and New England title-holder, Coleman Patrick Welch of Portland, Me., work out for their St. Patrick's Day Callahan A. C. bout Friday night in Boston Garden.

Both lads will be tossing leather each day in Kelly & Hayes Hanover st. gym. LaMotta working out at 2 p. m. and Welch at 4 p. m.

LaMotta appeared in the pink of condition when he stepped off the train at the South Station and explained that he already had been getting in trim in New York. Mike Capriano, LaMotta's manager, said that his charge was taking the Welch fight more seriously than any in recent months and was working himself up to a high pitch over the bout.

With a trio of sparring partners that included Billy Lancaster and big Salem Thomas, Welch hopped off the Pine Tree Limited at the North Station. His face was ruddy and split by a huge grin and he said he was ready for action immediately.

For nearly two weeks Welch has been working out in a woods camp near Boothbay Harbor, Me. Arrival of the two fighters gave ticket sales a spurt that may set a winter record by bell time.

Bowser, Szabo Agree On Mat Referee

Promoter Paul Bowser has promised Sandor Szabo, former West Coast champion, that he will assign his top referee to the main bout of the weekly wrestling show Wednesday night at the Arena where Szabo will be making a bid for a crack at the duration championship against Ed "Strangler" White.

Bruins Still In NL Race

By BILL GRIMES

There was plenty riding on Herbie Cain's third period goal last night at the Boston Garden. It gave the Bruins a 6 to 5 victory over Les Canadiens. It tied the all time scoring mark of 73 points, held jointly by Coney Weiland and Doug Bentley. It severed the Canucks' 11 games without a defeat streak. It stopped the Frenchmen from shattering the Ross-men's 77-point record. It was the first time that Bill Durnan has been beaten six times this season. And, lastly, it prevented the Bruins from being counted out of the playoffs, for the Rangers staged a four goal rally and tied the Blackhawks.

Since their last visit here, when they were shut out 3 to 0, Les Canadiens had captured two home and home series from Toronto, one from Rangers and Detroit, beaten the Bruins and won one and lost one with Chicago. And, during that streak they captured the N. H. L. title, for the first time in a decade.

Although Herbie Cain's goal was the Bruins' margin of victory, Pat Egan scored two very important markers in the opening period, unassisted. It was Mr. Martin Edward Egan that started the Ross-men on the way to their third win of the season over the Canucks.

Amateurs Open NE Ring Series

Streamlined to the ninth degree the New England amateur championships will be staged tonight in the Boston Arena and those in charge are enthusiastic in proclaiming that the changes wrought in the program will meet with the wholehearted approval of the fans.

The major revisions are the condensation of the program from the usual long drawn out trial series to the two elimination round system in which the winners in each round will qualify for the championship flight to be staged March 27. A second round trial will be conducted at the Boston Arena March 20th.

A canvass of the 53 entries reveals the 160-pound class with the greatest number of 16. Next in line is the 147 with 12 with Bobby Zollo, a former champion in the 135-pound division making his debut in the heavier class.

Other favorites include Tommy Luckman, Brockton 112-pounder who looks good to hurdle his field, Charley Amico of Lowell, and Mario Zullo of Chelsea in the 118-pound class, and Jimmy Griffin of Lowell in the 126-pound class.

Dickey Stays Home To Take Draft Exam

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 13 (AP)—A trip to the Yank training plant was postponed when Bill Dickey, veteran New York Yankee catcher, learned he is to take his preinduction examination Wednesday. He has just been reclassified 1-A.

Dickey is married and has a daughter.

Merchant Marine while reducing the quality of play is expected by club owners to make more competition.

They do not look for the Cardinals again to win the National League pennant by 18 games over Cincinnati or for the Yankees to sweep to another American League flag by the 13½ games they did last year over Washington.

Tall, lean 81-year-old Connie Mack, leader of the Philadelphia Athletics, expressed the general sentiment at Frederick, Md., where his A's have pitched camp.

"While all of us have lost some of our stars, that might be the means of having a real championship race this year. It may be that the team in first place July 1 will be last when the season ends."

The leader of the A's may have been thinking especially of the champion Yankees. The Bronx Bombers have lost Charley Keller, Bill Johnson, Marius Russo, Ken Sears and Roy Weatherly, and in addition the probable loss of Joe Gordon, Spud Chandler, Bill Dickey, Johnny Murphy and Rolfe Hemslay.

"We'll just have to wait and see," remarked Joe McCarthy as he arrived at the Yanks' Atlantic City base. "Things are unsettled all over."

The baseball training picture at a glance:

American League

ATLANTIC CITY (Yankees)—Only two players, pitchers Floyd Bevens and Johnny Johnson, on hand as Yank officials arrived.

Frederick, Md. (A's)—Bob Estalelli, traded to Indianapolis during the winter, will be with A's because Jojo Moore, for whom he was swapped, has been drafted. Outfielder Rip Radcliffe also may play part of season.

Lafayette, Ind. (Indians)—Manager Lou Boudreau indicated Steven Gromek may be switched back to infield from pitching.

College Park, Md. (Senators)—Manager Ossie Bluege and catcher Rick Ferrell led advance Washington contingent into camp. Bluege disclosed third baseman Harold Clift has been reclassified 1-A.

National League

Lakewood, N. J. (Giants)—Seventeen players, including pitchers Rube Fischer and Cliff Melton, reported for first workout. Billy Jurges was still unsigned and that pitcher Johnny Wittig will take his preinduction physical examination on March 28.

Bloomington, Ind. (Reds)—Frank McCormick, Cincinnati first baseman, at Red camp with 13 other players, disclosed he had been reclassified 1-A. He said he planned to stay with the club until called for induction.

Most of the other big league clubs will start training later this week, with the Cardinals and Browns not scheduled to begin until next Monday.

Somerville Five In NE Tourney

By virtue of its victory over Waltham in the final of the Tech Tourney Saturday night at the Garden, Somerville will represent this area in the New England basketball championships at Brown, starting Thursday.

Vin Cronin's squad was the best entry in the Tech playoffs and even when playing a so-so brand of ball had no trouble in downing North Quincy and Medford. But when at their best, as they were Saturday night against Waltham, they should be the equal of any high school squad in the East.

Like every other squad, Somerville has its key man, Capt. Tony Lavelli, and without him they're just a mediocre club. But barring injuries he'll be on hand in Providence and, if his Garden performance, flopping baskets in from over his shoulder, passing beautifully and breaking up the other team's scoring plays, is any criterion, he'll be very much in evidence in Providence.

Lavelli is the only player that Cronin would have any difficulty replacing as he has canable substitutes for every position.

Urban Landini and Bob Pugatch, two year men in Tech competition, fill the guard berths and the forward positions are well taken care of by Tom McCarthy and Charley Dick.

Of course comparatively little is known of the other teams in the New England other than Portsmouth, but it would be a safe bet that there are few better teams in these parts than Somerville.

The basketball fan won't have to wait for another year to see his favorite sport in a big time setting as the New England Catholic tourney opens Friday afternoon at the Arena bringing together the best parochial teams from the six New England states. The pairings won't be announced until this afternoon so there's no way of knowing what teams will represent Boston. But in past tourneys one of the two Boston entries always went into the finals so interest should run high.

Arlington Tops Hearst Shoot

Taking high individual honors and easily topping the New England area in team totals, Arlington Rifle Club proved to be the standout in the preliminary postal firing for the William Randolph Hearst Citizen Marksmanship Competition recently completed.

With a 743 high, Arlington led the five qualifying teams that will shoot shoulder-to-shoulder at the Commonwealth Armory next Sunday.

New Bedford Revolver and Rifle Club wound up second with 734; Piscataqua Rifle and Revolver Club, defending champion, was third with 729; Keene, N. H. Rifle Club wound up fourth and the last team to make the finals was the Woodstock Vermont Rifle and Pistol Club.

And now turning to individual performances, it is easy to see why Arlington led the way. Chet Elroy, with a perfect score of 100 prone and the high offhand total of 93, was high scorer with 193. Right behind Elroy came another Arlington sharpshooter, Sullivan, who tied the leader in offhand firing with 93 but his 98 prone gave him second place with 192.

The fact that Sullivan missed a perfect score from prone was surprising as he is a great shot and the 100 mark was achieved by 20 marksmen. One curious feature was that three of the four Marlboro Fish and Game shooters had 100 scores for prone shooting but their offhand scores ruled them out of the finals.
